Boston Herald April 23, 1950

STUDENT RADIO STATION—PBS

Students from Smith, Amherst and the University of Massachusetts recently united to form the Pioneer Broadcasting System, one of the first intercollegiate networks in the country. The stations, WCSR, Smith; WAMF, Amherst, and WMUA, the University, are connected by telephone lines for joint programs broadcast daily.

DRAMA IN ACTION—Raymond Walls of Bethlehem, Pa., Amherst freshman, mans controls as, left to right, Carol Fields of Janesville, Wis., Smith sophomore; Ralph Engelsman of New York city, and Nesbitt Blaisdell of Washington, D. C., Amherst sophomores, and Martha Lyon of West Hartford, Ct., Smith sophomore, enact a drama in co-operative broadcast over WMAF.

QUIZ TIME — Harolyn Feinman of New York, seated, puts students through their paces on weekly WCSR show. Standing, from the left, are Marjorie Shapira, Chicago; Louis Binder, Holyoke; Elizabeth Bentley, Perrysburg, O., and Louis Cadorete of Northampton.

CONCERT HALL — Sumner Gotchberg of Brookline, announces and directs recorded concert programs three times weekly. Watching is Wayne Langill of Claremont, N. H., manager of the University of Massachusetts' station.